1. Shashank Vyas discussed about the impact of IEEE MNIT student chapter on the society. This society should not only be limited to event management group but it should also reflect its impact on the development of our nearby areas. He raised a question to execom members how to make new members.
2. Execom members gave report about adding new members in IEEE last week. Anand Kumar Mishra convinced 7 members in computer science branch, Venu Sangwan convinced 5 members of electrical engineering department. Anand Kumar Mishra raised the issue of payment of IEEE membership as most of them do not have credit card.
3. Shashank Vyas asked about how to convince undergrad students. Execom members suggested that presentation about goal, vision and mission can be given.
4. Some aspirants came to the meeting and they asked about the past events. Shashank Vyas briefed them about the lecture delivered by Dr. AkshayRathore and hands on experience on LabView. He also stated that opening this branch is easy but maintaining it is tough.
5. Nimu Chand suggested that undergrads can be convinced through the representatives of various societies currently existing in the institute like placement cells and others. Regarding humanitarian, he suggested that our institute has adopted 5 villages and we can communicate with them and work in parallel.
6. Shashank Vyas talked about our first target of raising fund which will be used for successful conduction of events. Execom members suggested that we can ask our institute give us some funds, self-funded events and sponsors can be attracted.
7. Nimu Chand raised the question of what benefits will undergrad students receive by being part of this chapter. Akanksha Shukla answered him that undergrads will have an opportunity of interacting with experts who will come for the lectures which will be beneficial for higher studies. They will get 20% off in conferences conducted by IEEE for the research paper publication. Active members can be nominated for various awards given by IEEE for the recognition of their work. Shashank Vyas also mentioned that they will get funding by IEEE for attending conferences abroad to few members.

8. Anand Kumar Mishra mentioned that this meeting should not be limited only to execom members but also to the members of IEEE MNIT student chapter and then proposal can be invited from them.
9. Shashank Vyas asked about how to focus on humanitarian work. One suggestion given by him was to aware rural people about the benefit of solar and LED lamps. Akanksha Shukla suggested that we can make them aware about rain water harvesting and raise social awareness.
10. Venu Sangwan suggested that to attract more members, execom members can focus on their respective departments. Anand Kumar Mishra stated that we should start with small modules and try to complete them.
11. Venu Sangwan suggested that we can invite our new director to deliver one lecture on his area of expertise.
12. Meeting was adjourned by the Chair.

Next Meeting: Tuesday, November 29 at 5:00 PM
